The indictment alleges the organization used various residences, businesses, storage lockers, and trap vehicles to transport, store, package, and sell multi-kilogram quantities of cocaine and crack cocaine in the Milwaukee area. The indictment further alleges that some members of the conspiracy carried guns during their drug trafficking activities.

This case was investigated cooperatively by the United States Drug Enforcement Administration Task Force (which is composed of agents from the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Wisconsin Division of Justice-Division of Criminal Investigation, Milwaukee, New Berlin, Racine, and West Allis Police Departments, and Waukesha Sheriff's Department), Milwaukee HIDTA, Milwaukee Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

James F. Bohn, Assistant Special Agent in Charge of the Milwaukee District Office of the Drug Enforcement Administration stated, "This investigation underscores the success that law enforcement can have when targeting large-scale violent drug trafficking organizations. Joint investigations like this enhance our ability to eliminate these criminal organizations, which could not have been accomplished without the cooperation of all the agencies involved, especially the Milwaukee HIDTA and Milwaukee Police Department."

Based on these charges, the individuals face up from 10 years to life imprisonment and fines up to $4 million.

The public is cautioned that a complaint is merely the method issuing charges against an individual and does not represent any evidence of his or her guilt. An individual is presumed innocent until such time, if ever, as the government established his or her guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.
